

Wednesday 3 July | Thursday 4 July | Friday 20 September

Thank you for registering to attend our Open Day on Friday 20 September. In this newsletter, we are focusing on colleges, so read on for hints and tips to make the most of your time in Oxford.

LAST MINUTE PREPARATION

There is just one week to go before our last Open Day for 2019! Here is a last minute checklist of things to think about:

- We would recommend taking a look at the Open Day Guide and checking the college and department programme timetables to see whether there are any events you need to book in advance.
- If you haven't already, book your travel to save money. We strongly recommend that you use public transport as Oxford has very little parking in the city centre. Check out our travel advice page and download a copy of the Open Day Map and, if you're coming by car, the Park and Ride map, which will show you where all the bus stops are in the city centre
- Read about the process of applying to Oxford and write a list of questions you want to ask when you're here.
- Write a shortlist of colleges you want to visit (see below for tips).

TOP TIP

Our welcome teams are here for you! If you need any help during the Open Day then our team will be there to give you a hand. You can find us at the Open Day Information Centre on the High Street, at the train station, park and rides, and in the city centre at our two information points. Just keep an eye out for the cheery people in the blue t-shirts and come and say hello!

OXFORD COLLEGES

Colleges are at the heart of Oxford's reputation as one of the best universities in the world and make it a very special place to study and live. Every student belongs to a college as well as being a member of their subject department and the University. This means all Oxford students benefit from belonging to both a large, world-class university and to a small and friendly academic community.

If you study at Oxford you will live in college accommodation for your first year and often for other years of your course. You will eat there, make friends and get involved in sports and college societies, have access to libraries, bars and a range of support and welfare services.

Colleges are also where much of your teaching will happen in small groups called tutorials run by tutors, who you will have the chance to meet at the Open Day. By visiting colleges, we hope you will begin to understand how the tutorial system works and why we think it's a great way to learn.

Not exactly. You can put a college preference on your UCAS form but you might still be shortlisted and offered a place by another college. Reallocation helps us ensure that the best candidates are offered places, regardless of which college they select. In 2018, 33% of successful applicants got an offer from a college they didn't specify on their application.

The first thing you should do is check which colleges offer your course. On the whole, colleges have more similarities than differences so it is a matter of personal preference. Our website has a list of things you might like to consider when looking round colleges at Open Days, from their size and age, to where they are and what facilities they offer.

At an Open Day you'll have the opportunity to take a tour, speak with current students and meet with staff. Colleges also run admissions talks, personal statement workshops and subject sessions. Remember, whichever college you go to, you will be studying for the same degree at the end of your course so you only need to attend one admissions talk as the information covered will be the same in every college.

We would recommend drawing up a shortlist of colleges before you arrive in Oxford and aim to visit between three and five. Don't worry if you feel you have no strong preference for one college or another, visiting any of them will give you a good idea of how the college system works.

MUSEUMS AND LIBRARIES

If you have time after you've visited colleges and departments, you might like to see some of the many incredible resources the University has to offer. Oxford has four world-class museums that house rare treasures from the natural world as well as amazing art and artefacts. The museums are widely used as study resources for students on courses as various as Classical Archaeology and Ancient History to Fine Art and Medicine.

As a student here, you will be able to work in some of the best resourced and most awe-inspiring places to study anywhere in the world. Oxford has over 100 libraries, so why not tour the Bodleian Library, the Social Science Library, or the Radcliffe Science Library. You can also visit the University's Language Centre if you're interested in learning a language alongside your course and the main Sports Centre.

GREENER OPEN DAY

The Open Day falls during the proposed Global Climate Strike. Whilst Open Day events will be taking place as planned, we are very aware of the need to be more mindful of our impact on the planet. We are, therefore, taking steps to make this Open Day our greenest yet. Please see our website for more information on our plans. We also urge visitors to join in where they can, for example bringing water bottles to minimise the use of single-use plastics, travelling by public transport wherever possible, recycling any printed materials throughout the day.

JOIN IN THE CONVERSATION

We can't wait to see you at the Open Day. Why not follow us on Instagram and send us a photo of your Open Day experience using the hashtag #OxOpenDay. Featuring real students, societies and events, alongside key information about applying, @studyatoxford is the perfect place to see what student life at Oxford is really like.

Are you a family member or supporter of a university applicant?

At Oxford, we're keen to ensure our applicants have as much support as they need to make a competitive application. In order to do so, it's helpful to know as much as possible about their support network. We have therefore designed a survey to collect your thoughts, concerns and aspirations about your child and their future.

Filling out the survey should take no more than 20 minutes, and you will be automatically entered into a draw to win a £100 Amazon voucher!
