

Course Information Sheet for entry in 2026-27: MPhil in Medical Anthropology

Course facts

Mode of study	Full Time Only
Expected length	21 months

About the course

The MPhil in Medical Anthropology is a two-year course offering a coordinated training in both biological and social anthropological approaches to health and illness, with special emphasis on methods.

The MPhil is similar in topical scope and breadth to the MSc in Medical Anthropology (<https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/graduate/courses/msc-medical-anthropology>), but it allows for a deeper engagement with the theory and practice of anthropological research. It is intended both as a standalone degree and as a broader and deeper preparation for doctoral research than is possible with the MSc. It provides the necessary basis for future anthropological research and an excellent cross-cultural grounding for those aiming to pursue a career in clinical medicine, international health or other health-related fields.

Course structure

An overview of the course structure is provided below. Details of the compulsory and optional elements of the course are provided in the Course components section of this page.

During the first year of the MPhil you will follow the same course of instruction as MSc students through to the June examinations.

The first year consists of four papers. The three core papers, taught across Michaelmas and Hilary terms, each comprise lectures, tutorials and seminars. You will also select an option paper, which may have a topical or regional focus, based on your own interests.

At the end of the first year, you will use the summer vacation to acquire a firm grounding in medical anthropological literature and develop your dissertation outline based on this background reading. If appropriate you may also consider carrying out doing fieldwork over the summer in preparation for your MPhil thesis (if approval from the school is given).

Study towards the MPhil degree in the second year consists of class-based course work, participation in seminars and individual research, written up in a thesis.

Coursework in the second year has three components: critical reading classes in Michaelmas term and participation in two different methods classes in Michaelmas term and/or Hilary term.

There is one core seminar series in medical anthropology; the student led Medical Anthropology Research Seminars. In addition to those, there is a rich seminar culture at the School of Anthropology and Museum Ethnography (SAME) and students are expected to actively participate in those.

The research component is comprised of a 30,000-word thesis. MPhil students receive individual tuition from their supervisor on their dissertation writing throughout the second year.

Attendance

The course is full-time and requires attendance in Oxford. Full-time students are subject to the University's Residence requirements. (<https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/graduate/after-you-apply/accommodation/residence-requirements>)

The School of Anthropology and Museum Ethnography takes the view that full-time degrees require full-time study, ie equivalent to typical employment, around 40 hours per week, throughout the year.

In your first year, you should expect to spend six to eight hours per week in term time in formal teaching contexts (lectures, seminar groups, tutorials, classes), which can be supplemented with attendance of the many research and visiting speaker seminars on offer; the remainder of your time (ie around 30 hours per week) should be spent on independent study and preparation of submitted work.

In your second year, you will focus principally on research and writing for your 30,000-word thesis so the emphasis is on independent study, but you will still be expected to spend three to four hours per week in term time in formal teaching contexts, including a writing-up seminar and field research training, as well as regular meetings with your thesis supervisor, again supplemented by attendance of research seminars and lectures as you choose.

The periods outside term time are considered to be opportunities for further independent study, consolidating and supplementing the knowledge gained during the preceding term and preparing work for examination, as well as for an appropriate break from study.

Methods and skills training are offered through the school and sometimes through other institutions as well. A programme of research seminars is available, some of which feature invited speakers from outside the University. The principal event in this programme is the departmental seminar, run weekly during term time.

Resources to support your study

As a graduate student, you will have access to the University's wide range of resources including libraries, museums, galleries, digital resources and IT services.

The Bodleian Libraries is the largest library system in the UK. It includes the main Bodleian Library and libraries across Oxford, including major research libraries and faculty, department and institute libraries. Together, the Libraries hold more than 13 million printed items, provide access to e-journals, and contain outstanding special collections including rare books and manuscripts, classical papyri, maps, music, art and printed ephemera.

The University's IT Services is available to all students to support with core university IT systems and tools, as well as many other services and facilities. IT Services also offers a range of IT learning courses for students to support with learning and research, as well as guidance on what technology to bring with you as a new student \(https://www.it.ox.ac.uk/what-to-bring\) at Oxford.

Workspaces are available in the school on a first-come, first-served basis. Laboratory and other dedicated workspaces and equipment for methods teaching will be provided where required.

The Pitt Rivers Museum has its own library, the Balfour Library. The Pitt Rivers Museum also has an online catalogue of its entire collections and a number of dedicated collections-based and research-related websites.

A student-run society, the Oxford University Anthropology Society, runs coffee mornings, talks and other social and academic events throughout the year.

Supervision

You will receive all or most of your academic supervision in the School of Anthropology and Museum Ethnography. You will have a named supervisor, possibly two, who will have overall responsibility for the direction of your work from inception to submission.

The allocation of graduate supervision for this course is the responsibility of the School of Anthropology and Museum Ethnography and it is not always possible to accommodate the preferences of incoming graduate students to work with a particular member of staff. Under exceptional circumstances a supervisor may be found outside the School of Anthropology and Museum Ethnography.

Students have the opportunity to meet with their supervisor throughout the second year, to receive tuition on their dissertation writing.

Assessment

First year

You will be examined on three core papers: one in the second term, and two in the third term. During the third term, you will also be examined on one option paper. These assessments will usually take the form of an essay or an unseen timed examination. The examination of these papers in the first year constitutes the qualifying examination for continuation to the second year.

Second year

The second year consists of coursework alongside the MPhil thesis submitted in the third term. You will receive support from your tutors in devising a viable thesis project, including discussion of relevant literature, questions of methodology and research implementation.

- a viable project
- agreed supervision
- an overall mark of at least 67% in an Oxford anthropology master's degree
- the agreement of the School as a whole.

Course components

Compulsory study

The core papers are:

- Critical Medical Anthropology
- Biocultural Approaches to Medicine
- Anthropologies of the Body.

You will also submit a final thesis.

Options

You will select one option module in your first year. The list of available options in the school varies from year to year, but are chosen from around twelve to fifteen that are available, with topics including:

- current anthropological themes (eg sensory experience, and environment)
- specific areas of geographical focus (eg Africa, Japan, South America, South Asia, and Africa)
- art and anthropology
- film
- material anthropology.

You will participate in two different methods classes in your second year. The range of available methods classes in the school varies from year to year, with topics which may include (but is not limited to):

- Ethnographic Fieldwork Methods
- Ethnographic Portraiture
- Practical Quantitative Methods
- Critical Methods of Numerical Analysis
- Language-Focused Methods
- Ethnobiology Fieldwork Methods.

Changes to this course

The University will seek to deliver this course in accordance with the description set out in this course page. However, there may be situations in which it is desirable or necessary for the University to make changes in course provision, either before or after registration. The safety of students, staff and visitors is paramount and major changes to delivery or services may have to be made if a pandemic, epidemic or local health emergency occurs. In addition, in certain circumstances, for example due to visa difficulties or because the health needs of students cannot be met, it may be necessary to make adjustments to course requirements for international study.

Where possible your academic supervisor will not change for the duration of your course. However, it may be necessary to assign a new academic supervisor during the course of study or before registration for reasons which might include illness, sabbatical leave, parental leave or change in employment.

For further information please see our page on changes to courses \(//www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/graduate/courses/changes-to-courses\) and the provisions of the student contract \(//www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/graduate/after-you-apply/your-offer-and-contract\) regarding changes to courses.

Costs

Annual course fees

The fees for this course are charged on an annual basis.

Fees for the 2026-27 academic year at the University of Oxford

Fee status	Annual Course fees
Home	£25,370
Overseas	£41,380

What do course fees cover?

Course fees cover your teaching as well as other academic services and facilities provided to support your studies. Unless specified in the additional information section below, course fees do not cover your accommodation, residential costs or other living costs. They also don't cover any additional costs and charges that are outlined in the additional costs information below.

How long do I need to pay course fees?

Course fees are payable each year, for the duration of your fee liability (your fee liability is the length of time for which you are required to pay course fees). For courses lasting longer than one year fees will usually increase annually, as explained in the University's Terms and Conditions \(//www.ox.ac.uk/students/new/contract\).

Our fees and other charges \(//www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/graduate/fees-and-funding/fees-and-other-charges\) pages provide further information, including details about:

- course fees and fee liability \(//www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/graduate/fees-and-funding/fees-and-other-charges/courses-fees-and-liability\);
- how your fee status is determined \(//www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/graduate/fees-and-funding/fees-and-other-charges/fee-status\); and
- changes to fees and other charges \(//www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/graduate/fees-and-funding/fees-and-other-charges/changes-to-fees-and-charges\).

Information about how much fees and other costs will usually increase each academic year is set out in the University's Terms and Conditions \(//www.ox.ac.uk/students/new/contract\).

Additional costs

There are no compulsory elements of this course that entail additional costs beyond fees and living costs. However, as part of your course requirements, you may need to choose a dissertation, a project or a thesis topic. Please note that, depending on your choice of topic and the research required to complete it, you may incur additional expenses, such as travel expenses, research expenses, and field trips. You will need to meet these additional costs, although you may be able to apply for small grants from your department to help you cover some of these expenses. Standard travel insurance can be provided by the University. However, students may be required to pay any additional insurance premiums associated with travel to areas with an increased level of risk, and should factor this into their planning for fieldwork.

Living costs

In addition to your course fees and any additional course-specific costs, you will need to ensure that you have adequate funds to support your living costs for the duration of your course.

Living costs for full-time study

For the 2026-27 academic year, the range of likely living costs for a single, full-time student is between £1,405 and £2,105 for each month spent in Oxford. We provide the cost per month so you can multiply up by the number of months you expect to live in Oxford. Depending on your circumstances, you may also need to budget for the costs of a student visa and immigration health surcharge \(//www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/graduate/fees-and-funding/living-costs\) and/or living costs for family members or other dependants \(//www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/graduate/fees-and-funding/living-costs#field_listing_content_content-item--2\) that you plan to bring with you to Oxford (if dependant visa eligibility criteria \(//www.ox.ac.uk/students/visa/before/family\) are met).

Further information about living costs

The current economic climate and periods of high national inflation in recent years make it harder to estimate potential changes to the cost of living over the next few years. For study in Oxford beyond the 2026-27 academic year, it is suggested that you budget for potential increases in living expenses of around 4% each year – although this rate may vary depending on the national economic situation.

A breakdown of likely living costs for one month during the 2026-27 academic year are shown below. These costs are based on a single, full-time graduate student, with no dependants, living in Oxford.

Likely living costs for one month in Oxford during the 2026-27 academic year

	Lower range	Upper range
Food	£315	£545
Accommodation	£825	£990
Personal items	£160	£310
Social activities	£50	£130
Study costs	£35	£90
Other	£20	£40
Total	£1,405	£2,105

For information about how these figures have been calculated as well as tables showing the likely living costs for nine and twelve months, please refer to the living costs \(//www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/graduate/fees-and-funding/living-costs\) page of our website.
