Course Information Sheet for entry in 2017-18

Undergraduate Advanced Diploma in British Archaeology

About the course
This is a one-year part-time course at third-year undergraduate level which aims to provide you with an advanced grounding in British Archaeology and increase your understanding of the skills and techniques needed to recover, process and evaluate archaeological evidence.

There are three possible modules, with one module being offered each year.

The modules are

- Module 1: Early Prehistoric Britain
- Module 2: Later Prehistoric and Roman Britain
- Module 3: Anglo-Saxon, Viking and Medieval Britain

The module on offer for 2017-18 is Module 2: Later Prehistoric and Roman Britain

There are evening teaching sessions during term time, plus tutorials, weekend field visits and the choice of either two practical weekends or a one-week practical fieldwork programme. You will be given reading lists for the teaching sessions and coursework.

Module 2: Later Prehistoric and Roman Britain
This course explores the late Bronze Age, Iron Age and Roman period in Britain – covering the first millennium BC through to the early fifth century AD. This was a time of great technological, economic and social change, which we will study through landscape, settlement and material culture evidence. What were the different social implications of living in hillforts and roundhouses, and towns and villas? How can we trace the impact of the continent on Britain’s cultural and political relationships? This course will explore these and other questions.

Students are required to complete:

- 3 assignments of up to 2,500 words;
- A practical logbook of up to 4,000 words, to include a choice of learning tasks based on the practical training, visits to archaeological sites and/or museums and comparative site/artefact accounts, and a reflective discussion.
- A 10,000 word dissertation on a topic agreed with the Course Director.

Students who achieve an overall pass rate of 70%+ and pass each element of assessed work at the first attempt will be considered by the examiners for the award of a distinction.
The course requires attendance at:
- A minimum of 80% of the teaching sessions;
- Four tutorials;
- Either two practical weekends or one week (or equivalent) practical fieldwork.

Changes to courses
The University will seek to deliver each course in accordance with the descriptions set out above. However, there may be situations in which it is desirable or necessary for the University to make changes in course provision, either before or after registration. For further information, please see the University’s Terms and Conditions.

Expected length of course
1 year

The fees shown above are the annual tuition fees for this course for entry in the 2017-18 academic year; for courses lasting longer than one year, please be aware that fees will usually increase annually. For details, please see our guidance on likely increases to fees and charges. College fees are not generally payable for non-matriculated courses although a small number of courses may permit college affiliation for which a charge will be made.

Tuition fees are payable each year for the duration of your fee liability (your fee liability is the length of time for which you are required to pay tuition fees).

Additional cost information
Students are not required to buy books, but there may be a few recommended key texts which you may like to buy. Transport for field trips and the practical fieldwork is normally arranged on a car sharing basis by the students themselves. Costs of any additional hire of transport would be paid for by the students. Any entry fees to museums or sites are paid individually by the students.
Living costs
In addition to your fees, you will need to ensure that you have adequate funds to support your living costs for the duration of your course.

The likely living costs for 2017-18 are published below. These costs are based on a single, full-time graduate student, with no dependants, living in Oxford. We provide the cost per month so you can multiply up by the number of months you expect to live in Oxford.
