Colleges

All undergraduate students at Oxford become members of an academic community called a college, as well as being members of the wider University. Colleges offer a close and supportive environment to foster the academic development and welfare of every one of their students.

Colleges are also physical buildings, with a dining hall, bar, common room and library. Everyone lives in college accommodation in their first year. After that, you may decide to live with friends from your own or other colleges in rented accommodation.

Visit colleges on Oxford open days,
see ox.ac.uk/
opendays

You'll have a college tutor to oversee your academic development, an academic who teaches and does research. They interview applicants and decide who should study at their college. They may teach you, or arrange tutorials for you in college.

You'll become part of a JCR (Junior Common Room). This refers to all the undergraduate students at the college, who elect a 'JCR committee' to organise events and campaign on behalf of students. (It also refers to a room in college, where you can take time out to meet friends, get a cup of coffee, and watch TV.)

A PPH (Permanent Private Hall) is similar to a college, except that they are smaller, offer fewer courses, and were founded by particular Christian denominations. Students at PPHs are members of the University just like students at colleges, with access to the same University facilities and activities.

Choosing a college

Colleges have a lot more in common than they have differences, and whichever college you go to, you will be studying for the same degree at the end of your course.

FIND OUT MORE

Open days:
page 182

Visiting Oxford:

You can't choose which college you will study at, although you can express a preference by entering a particular college's 'campus code' when you apply. You might do this if you'd prefer a particular size, age or location of college. You can only specify a college if it offers your course: see pages 130–131.

If you don't want to choose then you can make an 'open' application by choosing campus code '9' on your UCAS application. This means we will randomly assign your application to a college or hall that offers your course. In 2014, 18% of applicants made an open application.

It is a myth that some colleges are easier to get into than others. Application numbers change from year to year, and the difference is filled up with people who have made an open application. Most applicants will be interviewed by several colleges; and if the college you specify is very oversubscribed, you may not be interviewed there at all. (For more on this, see ox.ac.uk/interviews.) Tutors are looking for the strongest applicants, regardless of whether or not you applied to their college, so whether or not you specify a college has no impact on your chances of getting a place at Oxford. In 2014, 33% of successful applicants got an offer from a college they hadn't specified on their application.

The best way to find out what a college is like is to come and look round one.

I made an open application as I really couldn't decide. I love the college I was assigned to.

Nicole, 1st year

I found choosing a college really hard! I chose one to apply to but was interviewed at two colleges, and ended up being offered a place at the other one.

Imogen, 4th year

I managed to look at several different colleges on an open day and although they all seemed very similar, one of them particularly stuck out in my mind, so I decided to apply there. I had two interviews at my college and two interviews in another and I got offered a place at the college I put on my UCAS application.

Jamie, 3rd year

Balliol is one of the oldest and largest colleges. In the 19th century, it pioneered the selection of students solely on academic ability. This remains the cornerstone of our admissions policy: we are committed to attracting women and men of exceptional talent regardless of social, cultural or educational background.

Our dynamic student community is drawn from a broad spectrum of schools within the UK, and also from elsewhere in the EU and overseas.

Balliol is fortunate to be able to offer some of the most generous financial aid at Oxford to its students, alongside the support provided by the University.

Many prominent figures in public life, particularly in the 20th century, graduated from Balliol. The college has retained its reputation for high academic standards, combined with a friendly atmosphere and lively spirit of intellectual debate.

Location

Balliol stands on Broad Street in the city centre, just metres from the Bodleian Library, and a short walk or cycle ride from University academic departments. Its modern annex is five minutes away on Jowett Walk.

Accommodation and meals

The vast majority of students can be housed in college rooms for the full duration of their course, though many second year undergraduates choose to 'live out' in Oxford.

Student meals are served in Hall and there is an optional scheme for prepayment which is economical and very popular. There is also a student-run pantry (café) in the Junior Common Room (JCR) serving food and drink at subsidised rates. There are self-catering kitchenettes on the main site and in the new buildings.

Facilities

Balliol has a large and extremely well stocked library (open 24/7), a law library and its own historic collections centre.

The college also has a music room, computer room and a purpose-built performance space, the Pilch Theatre, as well as a gym and range of specialist sports facilities, including a boathouse.

The chapel is a space for worship and reflection for all denominations, and none.

Balliol offers a wide range of access and hardship grants to assist students with their financial needs during their studies, and there are also special funds for research and travel.

Student societies

Balliol is proud to have one of the largest and most active student bodies in the University.

The centre of undergraduate life is the JCR, which organises lots of social events during term time, as well as offering an entirely student-run bar and the pantry.

Student activity extends to involvement in many college societies including, but not limited to: our non-auditioning chapel choir, the A&B (comedy) debating club, ultimate frisbee, mixed lacrosse and the annual charity musical.

Blackfriars is a small, supportive and international academic community, which welcomes undergraduate and postgraduate students (aged 21 or above), all of whom, from different backgrounds and religious traditions, value our distinctive ethos. Undergraduates may study Theology and Religion, Philosophy and Theology, Theology and Oriental Studies, or Philosophy, Politics and Economics.

Our academic study in Blackfriars Hall is informed by a common life of friendship alongside the Dominican friars of Blackfriars Priory, and those training for the priesthood in Blackfriars Studium. The Dominicans, a religious order of the Catholic Church, first came to Oxford in 1221 and returned in 1921.

The hall continues the Dominicans' historic mission to engage with contemporary thought by participation in the life and work of a modern university that is committed to excellence in teaching and research. Our Aquinas Institute specialises in the thought of St Thomas Aquinas and its modern relevance. The Las Casas Institute promotes critical reflection on questions of human dignity in the light of the Catholic social teaching and theology. Our students enjoy access to special lectures by distinguished visitors and to conferences offered by the institutes.

Location

Blackfriars is located on St Giles' in the city centre, with student accommodation in nearby St John Street, and offices in Beaumont Street.

Accommodation and meals

Accommodation in St John Street, with wifi, catering and laundry facilities, is guaranteed to all first-year undergraduates, and offered to others as available. Students are offered the opportunity to take meals at nearby partner colleges.

Facilities

Our outstanding library of more than 35,000 volumes in philosophy and theology opens daily from 7.30am (8.30am at weekends) to 10pm. There is a wifi network and a computer suite. The Junior Common Room (JCR) offers a comfortable place to relax and socialise.

Student societies

Blackfriars offers free membership of the University gym. There is an active Wine Society, and the Women's Group hosts speaker events. The JCR organises frequent social events. Highlights in Blackfriars' social calendar include the Thanksgiving Dinner, Advent Party, a reading week in the country, the Priory Dinner, and summer garden party. Students regularly combine with members of other colleges for sporting activities.

Brasenose is a friendly and diverse community, with a strong tradition of academic excellence. Situated in the beautiful setting of Radcliffe Square, we are at the very heart of the University and the city. Brasenose is committed to admitting the brightest and best students regardless of background, and creating an environment where individuals can flourish and realise their potential.

Location

Brasenose College is the only undergraduate college on Radcliffe Square, near to the main University libraries, lecture theatres and other buildings, but also right next to the bustling High Street. We also have accommodation at the Frewin Hall complex, which is a five-minute walk from the main site, and also in the centre of the city.

Accommodation and meals

Brasenose is able to accommodate undergraduates for all years of study. First years live together on the main site, second years normally live in the nearby Frewin complex, and there is accommodation for later-year students on both sites. All our rooms are single, and have either a washbasin or full en suite facilities. We have some rooms suitable for disabled students, and applicants with special requirements are welcome to contact us to discuss needs.

Brasenose enjoys a well-deserved reputation for delicious food. A full and affordable pay-as-you-go meal service is provided in our splendid 16th century dining hall, there is a popular, recently refurbished cafe on the main site, and shared kitchens in the Frewin complex. Our lively bar is a fantastic place to relax and meet up with friends.

Facilities

Brasenose has three excellent libraries open 24 hours a day. We offer free membership to the University's gym, and have our own sports ground (five minutes' cycle ride from college) where students play rugby, football and cricket among other sports. There is also a well-equipped boathouse on the river. The college has music practice rooms, a large double common room with satellite TVs, newspapers, a pool table, film library and Wii console, laundry facilities and a friendly porters' lodge staffed 24/7. Each bedroom has internet access, and there is a comprehensive college wifi network. The college offers grants to those wishing to stay during vacation: for course-related research and travel, to support extra-curricular activities, and to aid those in unexpected financial hardship.

Student societies

The college has a strong tradition in drama and music and there is an annual week-long summer arts festival featuring student-produced plays, concerts, film nights, exhibitions, a cabaret, a bake-off and more. We have an energetic choir and numerous sports teams, plus a range of other social, cultural and sporting activities, where all levels are catered for.

Many different kinds of people, from various backgrounds, come to Christ Church. We are one of the larger colleges and can offer places for most undergraduate courses. The result is a diverse, vibrant and active academic community.

We select solely on academic ability and potential. The college is committed to widening participation, attracting talented students whatever their background.

Christ Church is sensitive to the growing financial costs associated with a university education. We are in the fortunate position of being able to offer generous support in addition to the financial package provided by the University. This means that no student with the ability and potential to study at Oxford should be deterred from making an application to us on financial grounds.

Location

Christ Church is on St Aldate's, close to the Bodleian Library and other University facilities, and next to Christ Church Meadow with its peaceful river walks.

Accommodation and meals

All Christ Church students live in college rooms throughout their course. Most rooms are on the main site, in spacious, modernised buildings built over five centuries. About 60 students live nearby in modern self-catering flats. One flat is equipped for up to three disabled residents, and two single rooms for disabled students are also available on the main site. A full service of varied and high-quality meals is provided in the hall, and we aim to cater for all special diets.

Facilities

Our magnificent 18th-century library, one of the largest in Oxford, aims to supply everything undergraduates need for their courses and responds to many requests for new purchases; there is also a specialised law library. We have two well-equipped computer rooms, and there is wifi available throughout the college, including in students' rooms.

The common room has table tennis and pool tables, and a widescreen TV with satellite channels and a DVD player. The college has a music room, art gallery and art room, where the art tutor offers classes and organises visits, discussions and video displays.

Student societies

Our student societies cater for a wide range of interests, and the college sports ground has excellent facilities for sports of all sorts for everyone, whether highly skilled or merely enthusiastic. The drama society puts on regular productions and encourages participation in and out of college. Music flourishes, with an orchestra, choir and other ensembles, as well as the renowned Christ Church Cathedral Choir. Those with contemporary musical interests can showcase their talents at the termly 'open mic' night. A number of subject-based societies arrange dinners, speakers and discussions.

Boasting a strong sense of community and a friendly atmosphere, Corpus Christi is one of Oxford's older and smaller colleges. It prides itself on the diversity of its students' backgrounds, with a strong tradition of openness, tolerance and fairness. All this helps to make the college unusually well integrated and supportive.

Location

Corpus is five minutes' walk from the city centre and Bodleian Library, and only ten minutes from the arts faculties and science laboratories, but is tucked away from the noise of the city, looking out over Christ Church Meadow towards the river.

Accommodation and meals

The college offers all its students a room for the normal duration of their course. Usually, first-year students live in college. Students in other years can live on the main site or close by. The Liddell Building and recent Lampl Building, about 15 minutes away from the college, have shared flats with communal kitchens and dining areas. Some rooms have their own ensuite shower and WC. There is also accommodation for students with mobility difficulties.

Facilities

The magnificent 16th-century Old Library and its trilingual collection of books was described by the humanist Erasmus as a wonder of the world, and is still used by students today. With more than 60,000 books, 24-hour opening, computerised catalogues, numerous PC workstations, and the provision of colour printing, scanning, and photocopying, it is a convenient as well as a beautiful place to work.

Wired and wireless internet access is available throughout the college's main site, including the library and all student bedrooms, and all annexe locations (including the Liddell and Lampl Buildings). The well-equipped computer room has eight PCs and a large multi-functional device for colour printing, scanning and photocopying.

The college has a multi-purpose auditorium suitable for concerts, drama productions, parties, and lectures. We have an ecumenically progressive chapel whose lively choir has travelled the world. Students have access to a sports field, squash court, and boathouse, as well as the beer cellar, TV rooms, and Junior Common Room (JCR).

Due to the age of the buildings, some areas within the college pose access challenges for students with mobility difficulties.

Student societies

Among the most active of our many clubs are the dramatic society - the Owlets - and the choir. There are plenty of sporting opportunities too, always undertaken enthusiastically. The college has an impressive social calendar with an inexpensive ball every other spring and a fair each June, which features our famous tortoise race. The effective JCR, represented on most committees, is active at open days, in access activities, and - of course - in the beer cellar.

Exeter, Oxford's fourth oldest college, has a close – but not claustrophobic – community, and there is a caring atmosphere where people look out for others.

Uniquely, the college has its own careers advice office which offers internships with employers. It also has a distinctive programme of in-house seminars by prominent public figures: Philip Pullman and David Willetts have spoken recently. Former undergraduates include JRR Tolkien, Alan Bennett, Sir Ronald Cohen, and Sir Roger Bannister. It offers financial aid for student hardship. Exeter encourages strong international links: in addition to its above-average proportion of students from overseas, the college hosts 26 visiting students from Williams College in Massachusetts.

Location

Exeter is in the centre of Oxford, close to the main libraries, lecture theatres and departments (as well as to shops and pubs).

Accommodation and meals

First-year students all live on the college's main site in Turl Street. Final-year students have the opportunity to live on site or in the annexes (the college is opening a new quadrangle in nearby Jericho in 2016). Other students live in the annexes or share private rented accommodation nearby. All rooms in college have fast wireless internet access. Three meals a day are provided in hall during term; annexes also have self-catering facilities.

Facilities

The library is generously funded and open for reading and borrowing 24 hours a day during term, with long hours in vacations. It has 40,000 volumes on open shelves and as many again in the stack. Most first years will find many of their books in the library, but students are also encouraged to suggest purchases. Computer rooms, with printers, are provided on site.

Exeter students enjoy one of the most beautiful gardens in Oxford, with views over Radcliffe Square.

Student societies

Exeter students participate in a wide variety of student societies, both in college and for the University. Exeter has a strong musical tradition: the excellent mixed choir sings in chapel, and the musical society supports everything from jazz through folk to classical. The bar is a popular venue for rock, folk, jazz and blues. The JCR is a hub of social activity.

Exeter has many sports teams, a small gym and weights room on site, a sports ground, and a boathouse on the Thames. Exonians have had much sporting success, but most play for fun and exercise: it's not compulsory!

Harris Manchester is the only Oxford college which is dedicated solely to mature students (21+ with no upper age limit). As the smallest college in the University, there is an intimate, friendly atmosphere, with a great deal of peer support. The diversity of our students in terms of age, culture and background makes the college a very interesting and vibrant society.

The college has a number of scholarships for second undergraduate degrees, up to £18,000 in total, which are awarded on merit. All second BA applicants are automatically considered.

Location

Harris Manchester is centrally situated in a quiet location on Mansfield Road, just a few minutes away from the Bodleian Library, most faculty libraries, the science area and other University facilities.

Accommodation and meals

College accommodation is on the main site and students are generally accommodated in college for at least the first and final years of their course. We are unable to provide accommodation for couples and families. All rooms are wired for the internet. There is a mix of modernised 16th- and 17th-century houses, and some new improved accommodation built in a classical style and including a recently completed clock tower building. The charges for living in college include meals, which are of a consistently high quality, and care is taken to cater for specific dietary requirements.

Facilities

The library has some 70,000 volumes. The reading room, the Tate Library, is open to students 24 hours a day. It covers all undergraduate subjects that the college offers, and has a generous budget. The college gives a book grant to each first-year student. There is a student computing room and a high level of IT support.

Student societies

College life from year to year is very dependent on the interests of current students, and so there is a great opportunity for each individual to influence college life. The college has a flourishing law society and wine society. In some years there has been a drama society, in others we have fielded a very successful football team. We join forces with the Wadham rowing team. There is also a college choir, and music has become an important part of college life.

Hertford is known for its friendly atmosphere, welcoming students wherever they come from: you don't have to be any particular type to fit in here. We value our informal, progressive climate, which we believe fosters good, positive working relationships between tutors and students.

Location

Hertford is in quiet Catte Street, opposite the Bodleian Library and right in the city centre.

Accommodation and meals

All first years live on the main site in Catte Street surrounded by some of the most beautiful buildings in Oxford. Students in other years live in Warnock or Abingdon House (both purpose-built and close to the river and Christ Church Meadow), or in north Oxford, all about ten minutes' walk away. We offer you a room for the full duration of your course and all student rooms have internet connections, telephones and small shared kitchens. You are charged just for the meals that you take, using a swipe card. There is cafeteria service in college and at Warnock House (for certain meals) and there are also opportunities for formal dining.

Facilities

The college library is open 24 hours a day. Its working stock is on open shelves and covers all degree subjects taken in college. There is no limit on the number of books students can borrow and requests for new books are welcome. All desks have internet connections and the library has its own computer room.

The well-equipped Junior Common Room (JCR) has two computer rooms and there are additional computing facilities at Warnock and Abingdon House.

The college has a gym, a music room and an attractive and comfortable bar. Off site we have sports grounds, tennis and squash courts, and a superb boathouse.

Student societies

Hertford's students are diverse and passionate about their various interests, so we have societies for everything from business and economics to ultimate frisbee. We are strong in music-making of all kinds, with an orchestra, choir and other groups giving performances. Our boathouse provides excellent facilities for novices and experienced oarsmen and women, and we compete successfully in the full range of major sports. Many subjects also have their own societies that meet to hear specialist speakers or just to enjoy one another's company.

Jesus College is renowned for its close-knit community where academic excellence is central to college life. We aim to offer our students the best possible education and opportunities during their time here, and as a result we have recently been voted best college for student satisfaction. Each year we award a large number of scholarships, prizes and grants to recognise achievement and progress, and to support music, sports and travel.

The college has always had Welsh connections, though our students now come from all over the UK and other countries. More than half our undergraduates come from state schools.

Location

Jesus College is in Turl Street, right in the heart of Oxford, close to the main libraries and within easy walking distance of the science area, shops, cinemas and theatres.

Accommodation and meals

Jesus College offers full accommodation for all its undergraduates. First years have rooms in central Oxford, living in our historic Turl Street site or in the new Ship Street Centre. Over two-thirds of the rooms are ensuite. After that, most students live in college flats, either to the north (near the science area) or to the east (by our sports ground). These high-quality flats have three/four bedrooms around a kitchen, sitting room and bathroom, for reasonable cost. Meals in hall are popular and food is charged on a pay-as-you-go basis to the termly bill, so students can choose whether to eat in hall or not. Gowns are not required for evening meals.

Facilities

The college library is open 24 hours a day and the computer room is well equipped. Wifi is available in the libraries, common rooms and seminar rooms.

The Junior Common Room (JCR) boasts a conservatory, as well as newspapers, magazines, refreshments, wide-screen TV and a pool table. The college bar 'Fourth Quad' is open in the evenings. The college also has a music room and dark room. Our large sports pavilion doubles as an entertainment venue, and we have playing fields, squash courts and a boathouse. Our students have free membership of the University gym and pool. We welcome students with disabilities: please see our access guide at www.jesus.ox.ac.uk/admissions/disability-support and contact us before applying to discuss your needs.

Student societies

The JCR Arts Fund supports the dramatic society to facilitate student productions. Jesus College students jointly organise the lively Turl Street Arts Festival. Thriving subject societies (from English to Physics) arrange formal and informal events. The chapel choir regularly leads Evensong, gives concerts and goes on tours. The college is very active in many sports, either competitively or just for fun.

Keble provides a supportive environment for students from all backgrounds and the college's central aim is to foster the highest academic achievement for all its students. The college has developed a strong programme of financial support for students through prizes and academic scholarships, as well as bursaries. There are also generous grants for overseas travel, arts, study and internships, and an exchange programme enabling some students to take courses at Dartmouth University, USA.

Location

The college is adjacent to the University Parks, between the science area and the new humanities quarter. The main libraries are close by and the city centre is five minutes away.

Accommodation and meals

Keble normally offers rooms to all students in their first two years and to most in their third year. We believe we have some of the best college accommodation in Oxford. Our 360 rooms are well furnished and 250 have their own shower and WC; the others have washbasins, with adjacent toilets and shower rooms. The college retains the custom of dining formally in one sitting, with waiter service, each night except Saturday, which makes the experience in our magnificent hall all the more special and important for Keble's great sense of community. Café Keble offers drinks and light bites during term and is a great place to socialise or study.

Facilities

The library has over 100 work spaces, is open 24/7, and prides itself on a helpful and efficient service. Keble is also home to the Advanced Studies Centre, which fosters interdisciplinary research and hosts frequent talks by world experts. The college has one of Oxford's newest and best equipped theatres, the O'Reilly, which runs productions each term. We have a well-equipped gym, a sports ground and squash courts within easy reach and we also use parts of the nearby University Parks. Computer rooms provide PCs, colour printers and A4 scanners; full-time computer officers help with any problems. There are internet connection points in every room and wireless access throughout most buildings.

Student societies

Keble is large and diverse enough to host societies and clubs of every description. Keble's music society and chapel choir are among the best in the city. There is also a strong drama society, which helps to run the O'Reilly theatre. Our students organise and run an annual Arts Week, which showcases both the visual and performing arts, and includes very popular stand-up comedy and poetry nights. Sport also plays a prominent role in college life, with teams catering for all levels of experience and commitment. At the upper level, many Keble teams make the top division and compete in intercollegiate sporting competitions.

Our students enjoy all the benefits of a traditional Oxford education within a warm, open and informal environment. We have almost equal numbers of men and women among our tutors, our undergraduates and our graduates. Our students work with internationally distinguished scholars who are dedicated to tutorial teaching and to welfare support. Bursaries, academic awards, and research grants are available to enable hard-working students to achieve their academic potential. We are accessible to those with mobility problems. LMH has an exceptionally beautiful site with gardens which run down to the river.

Location

We are beside the University Parks, a 5-minute walk to the science area and about 15 minutes on foot (5 minutes by bicycle) from the city centre.

Accommodation and meals

Undergraduates are guaranteed a room on the college site for three years of their course. Some rooms are unusually large, and the majority are ensuite; all have wireless internet connections. There is purpose-built accommodation for physically disabled students. Our dining hall serves a wide menu on a buffet basis and there are opportunities for formal meals alongside more informal gatherings. Our food is among the best across Oxford colleges. We are distinctive in having a large number of student kitchens and kitchenettes so that all students can also cook and prepare their own food for themselves and their friends.

Facilities

Our college library is a lovely place to study. It has separate secluded bays as well as common tables. We have an exceptionally generous stock of books and research materials that is matched closely to the requirements of our students' courses. The library and its resources are always available: open 24/7, with most materials on open shelves, and a self-checkout system. There is a computer room, and students can bring laptops into the library for their work. We designate a 'brain-storming' room for students to talk about work outside the library.

We have a lecture theatre which is available for student theatre and musical performances. It is an established venue for events, including international film premières. We have music practice rooms, a gym, tennis courts, playing fields and a boathouse with its own punts. Our buildings house a purpose-built undergraduate common room, and our bar has a games room and an outside terrace.

Student societies

LMH students are active in a wide variety of societies, sports (competitive and recreational), cultural and community activities. We enjoy excellent facilities and it is easy to get involved or to start new activities at LMH and to find others to join in.

Lincoln, one of the smaller undergraduate colleges in Oxford, combines intimacy with a strong academic tradition. Its strength is the personal relationship between tutors and students built by the tutorial system. There is also a genuine atmosphere of good humour, hard work and mutual support. Our tutors encourage applicants from all kinds of schools and backgrounds. Our aim is simply to give the best education we can to those best able to benefit.

There are generous bursaries for students from low-income backgrounds, in addition to University support. There are also prizes and scholarships for outstanding academic work, grants for books, bursaries for travel and project work in vacations, and some discretionary funds for unexpected financial difficulty.

Location

Lincoln is in the city centre, on Turl Street, between the High Street and Broad Street. The college was founded in the 15th century and the main site retains its medieval character. Lincoln has also converted other properties nearby for accommodation and teaching.

Accommodation and meals

Undergraduates are guaranteed college-owned accommodation for the three or four years of their course. All rooms have washbasins or ensuite facilities and an internet connection. First- and second-year students usually live in the old part of college and in Turl Street. Third- and fourth-year students are usually accommodated a few streets away, close to the science area, or opposite the college on the High Street. Our food is widely regarded as the very best in the University and the 15th-century hall provides a popular focus for college life. Three meals are served in hall every day during term time. Lincoln's attractive cellar bar serves light lunches and coffee.

The college has one of the most beautiful libraries in Oxford, in what was All Saints Church – a fine, early 18th century building now sensitively restored as a fully equipped modern library with more than 80 reading desks. Students have their own well-equipped computer room and each undergraduate is given a generous free printing allowance. Lincoln has a sports field and boathouse, and all students have free membership of the University gym and swimming pool.

Student societies

There are college teams in most sports and several active student societies. Drama and music are strong, and each year the Turl Street Arts Festival provides a special focus for a wide range of arts events organised by members of the college. The fine chapel choir (which has recorded several CDs) performs throughout the term and undertakes tours in the UK and abroad. Much social life is focused on the Junior Common Room (JCR) and cellar bar. A Lincoln ball is held in alternate years.

Magdalen (pronounced 'Maudlen') has some of the most beautiful buildings in Oxford, new as well as ancient. It is set in 100 acres of grounds which include the Deer Park and Addison's riverside walk. Magdalen's spaciousness has helped to determine its character – diversified, informal and without pressure to conform to any stereotype or set of views. Students are represented on all the key committees which run the college. The atmosphere is relaxed, devoid of social pressures, but with unambiguous ambitions towards academic and extra-curricular success.

Every year we aim to admit 118 undergraduates who demonstrate academic talent and commitment, entirely on merit and irrespective of social or ethnic background. We welcome applications from students with disabilities. Magdalen is able to provide for students who run into financial problems. There are large numbers of travel and research grants every year, as well as annual tutorial prizes for the most promising and successful of our students.

Accommodation and meals

All undergraduates can live in college for the entire duration of their course, whether three years or four. Many college rooms have superb views, and all have access to bathroom facilities nearby. Every room has internet access, a telephone and a mini fridge. Meals are available at competitive prices in the dining hall or in the 14th-century Old Kitchen Bar which acts as an ideal social centre shared by everyone: students, tutors and college staff.

Facilities

There are 100,000 volumes spread among the college's five libraries, with the main ones open 24 hours a day. There is a large DVD collection, with an emphasis on modern language classics of cinema. The musical and theatrical lives of the college are particularly strong and the college auditorium seats up to 160 people and has superb 'studio' acoustics. We possess two music practice rooms and a dedicated modern languages room. Our computer facilities for students are excellent. We have our own professionally maintained grounds for football, rugby, cricket and hockey as well as nine tennis courts, our own squash courts, and an all-weather pitch (all on site) as well as an extremely well-equipped Boat Club.

Student societies

Drama thrives. The Magdalen Players are renowned for their many high-class productions. Musical opportunities abound – as well as the famous Magdalen Choir and the Magdalen Orchestra, student bands and jazz groups are active. College societies cater for all interests, eg poetry, films and debating. Football, hockey, lacrosse, netball, swimming, rugby and cricket are very popular at all levels. Rowing – men's and women's – is traditionally strong.

Mansfield is one of the smaller colleges, and we provide a supportive environment in which our students can excel academically. All our first-year undergraduates attend an induction programme before they begin their course, where they receive guidance about how to get the most out of their time at university.

Mansfield acts on its belief that an Oxford education should be available to all those with the requisite talent, potential and application, whatever their background. Our proportion of students from the state sector is the highest among Oxford colleges. As well as outreach work with our link regions in Kent and Yorkshire, Mansfield runs events specifically for colleges of further education and sixth form colleges.

Location

Mansfield occupies one of the best sites in Oxford, a short walk away from the science area and University libraries, close to the city centre but in a quiet position near the University Parks.

Accommodation and meals

All first-years are accommodated on site. Finalists are either on site, or in college accommodation, a 15-minute walk away. Undergraduates living on site enjoy either the convenience of ensuite facilities or more spacious rooms in the Marsh block. All rooms have telephone and internet connections. The dining hall provides some of the best food in the University at reasonable prices and a new student cafeteria, bar and terrace were completed in 2014.

Facilities

The well-stocked library is a beautiful wood-panelled room in a quiet area of college, with separate libraries for theology, law and history, open 24 hours. Mansfield is fortunate to share Merton's sports grounds, just a few minutes' walk from the college with tennis and squash courts, and provides free gym membership for all students. We have a very sociable college cat.

Student societies

Student societies depend on the interests of current students, but established societies include: a very popular Film Club, evening discussion groups, thriving subject societies such as Geography and Law societies, and regular events to encourage and celebrate the achievements of women in the college. Mansfield is among the leading colleges for involvement in student journalism. The chapel is available for music practice and holds regular lunchtime recitals, and there is an active college choir. Our small size makes it very easy to be involved in a wide range of sports teams, including netball, football and cricket, and many of our students try rowing for the first time when they come to Mansfield.

Merton is one of the oldest and most beautiful colleges in Oxford with medieval and 17th-century buildings and a fine garden protected by the city wall. Merton has a strong sense of community with a lively and stimulating atmosphere. We have a strong ethos of widening participation and are keen to attract talented applicants, whatever their background.

Location

Merton overlooks meadows stretching down to the River Thames, yet it is in a quiet cobbled street just off the High Street, close to the University libraries, lecture rooms and departments. The Holywell Street annexe is within a few minutes of the science area.

Accommodation and meals

Undergraduates can live in college-owned accommodation for their whole course, whether for three or four years. First years live in houses on Merton Street or on the main college precinct, while second years live in college-owned houses in Holywell Street, just seven minutes from Merton Street, and final years generally live on the main site. Many rooms have a private shower or bath, and two rooms are accessible for students with disabilities. All accommodation has Ethernet and wifi access.

Merton's hall food is among the tastiest and best value in the University and is charged on a pay as you go basis. There are student kitchens on the main site and in each of the properties on Holywell Street. We are happy to discuss any particular access or dietary requirements.

Facilities

Students have a choice of workspace in the college – the well-stocked lending library which contains 80,000 volumes, and a separate reference library. The medieval Old Library houses a significant collection of early books and is the oldest library in Britain in daily use. Merton's facilities include a TV room, bar and laundry. The college gym is on the main site, while a boathouse and sports ground (with playing fields, pavilion, tennis and squash courts) are nearby. There is an active Junior Common Room (JCR) which organises social events. The magnificent chapel holds regular services and is also used for concerts and plays. A music practice room and the state-of-the-art TS Eliot Lecture Theatre can be booked by students.

Merton is also able to provide generous financial support in the form of various grants to assist in purchasing books, travel in connection with study, etc.

Student societies

There are plenty of opportunities for students to pursue their interests, including drama, debating and art as well as a wide range of sports. The chapel choir has a strong reputation, and a number of choral scholarships are available, while other choirs and bands cater for wider musical interests. New College is one of the largest, most famous and architecturally striking colleges, with beautiful large gardens, excellent facilities and a variety of modern and old buildings. The college has a distinguished musical tradition: our choir is world-famous and our musical life (from 14th-century choral music to 21st-century jazz) is extraordinary. The atmosphere in college is relaxed, friendly and open, and we are proud of our actively engaged and diverse student body.

Location

The New College site is both quiet and central, close to many faculties, departments and libraries, as well as shops, cinemas, cafés and clubs.

Accommodation and meals

We are able to provide accommodation in or close to college for all undergraduate students in their first, second and fourth years. A number of third-year undergraduates can also be accommodated. Our rooms are single study bedrooms, with internet access; most are ensuite, some with shared bathrooms. Breakfast, lunch and dinner are served in hall during term. Some self-catering kitchens and kitchenettes are also available for student use. The college aims to accommodate students with disabilities, and such applicants are encouraged to contact the college to discuss their needs.

Facilities

The college library has plenty of work space, and is open until midnight during term time. There are up-to-date books for all courses with more than 100,000 volumes available, 70% of which are on open shelves. There are excellent IT facilities with internet connections in all college accommodation. The JCR computer room has workstations with printers and scanners, and there is wireless access across the college. We have several music practice rooms with pianos and a 'band room' with a drum kit, keyboard, amplifiers, microphones, decks and a PA system.

New College has its own sports ground and pavilion close to the main college site with pitches for rugby, football and hockey, two squash courts, and an all-weather court for netball and basketball. There is also a cricket pitch, grass and hard tennis courts and a boathouse on the banks of the River Thames, along with a number of college punts.

Student societies

New College fosters individuality in its students, but they are also encouraged to get together so that societies flourish. Several drama groups put on productions each year, while music is a college passion too. There are chamber and choral groups of many sizes, as well as a college orchestra. Furthermore, we cater for jazz and non-classical musicians. We keep up high levels in sport and field many teams and boats. Our female athletes have been especially successful in recent years.

Oriel is an inclusive academic community with a friendly atmosphere. We value diversity and encourage applications from bright students of all backgrounds. We also recognise the increasing financial needs of students today and offer prizes for outstanding academic achievement, generous travel grants and access to hardship funds. The tutors at Oriel take a keen interest in the academic development of their students, not only through their regular interactions in tutorials but also through encouraging students to relate their work to, and engage with, the rich programme of research active in college and the rest of the University. As crucial preparation for their future lives and careers, we work to help our undergraduates achieve the highest academic standards. Each term Oriel holds Joint Academic Forums to which all members of Oriel are invited to discuss research topics and questions from an interdisciplinary perspective. We are always keen to meet prospective students and their families – please stop by if you have any questions or would like a college tour.

Location

Oriel's main entrance is on the beautiful Oriel Square, in the city centre just off the High Street. Shops, the Bodleian Library, University departments and the train/bus stations are only a short walk away.

Accommodation and meals

All students can live in college for the duration of their course; most undergraduates (and all first years) live on the main site. Rooms are graded for cost according to size and facilities. Many rooms on the main site have their own bathroom, or share it with one other room. All rooms have internet points and most rooms have telephones. Three cooked meals are served in the dining hall every weekday. Evening meals at Oriel are extremely popular and social occasions. There are also kitchens for students who want to cook for themselves.

Facilities

Oriel has an impressive library of more than 100,000 volumes that is open 24 hours a day and has wifi. Undergraduates have their own common room, shop, TV room and an annexe for meetings or parties. Our popular college bar hosts regular discos, band gigs and karaoke nights. There is a music practice room and pianists may also use the grand piano in the library. Oriel has its own sports ground, gymnasium, squash court and boathouse, with facilities for all major sports.

Student societies

Oriel has a social and active student body. Our drama society's annual highlight is a play staged outdoors in front quad. Oriel has a very good mixed chapel choir and an active music society. Other flourishing clubs include the film society and Raleigh (arts/literature) society.

The college's sports teams include badminton, basketball, cricket, darts, football, modern pentathlon, netball, rowing, rugby, squash and water polo. The emphasis is on enthusiasm, giving the opportunity for everyone to take part.

Pembroke is an inclusive and welcoming academic community. While offering a broad range of undergraduate courses, the college has been at the forefront in promoting joint honours schools and specialised subjects such as Oriental Studies. In recent years Pembroke has taken a pioneering approach to access work with state schools, appointing Oxford's first full-time Access Fellow and rolling out an ongoing collaboration with schools in Hackney, Hammersmith and the North West of England.

Location

Pembroke is conveniently located for the city centre, off St Aldate's.

Accommodation and meals

Undergraduates are offered college accommodation for all three years of a standard course. All first-year students live on the college's main site. Many rooms have ensuite facilities. Second- and final-year students are offered rooms in the brand new quad linked by the bridge to the main site or in the Geoffrey Arthur Building (the GAB), a ten-minute walk away beside the river. There are facilities for students with disabilities.

Breakfast and lunch are available on weekdays, and brunch at weekends. Dinner is served in the hall Sunday to Friday for first-year students, and others living on the main site. There are also shared kitchens throughout the college for self-catering.

Facilities

Our library is well stocked, covering predominantly first-year material for all the undergraduate courses represented in the college. There are multiple copies of core texts for loan, and the library is open 24 hours during term.

A dramatic modern extension to the historic college site complements and enhances the facilities Pembroke offers. With a multi-purpose auditorium, seminar rooms, café, art gallery and glass-walled bridge linking the Chapel Quad to the new Rokos Quad, Pembroke's interlinked spaces have been opened up to encourage and strengthen interaction between its undergraduate, postgraduate and teaching communities. Wifi is available throughout the college, as well as wireless printing facilities. Pembroke's sports grounds and boat house are near to the main site and students are offered heavily discounted membership of the local LA Fitness gym.

Student societies

We offer a wide range of college-run societies catering to all tastes. Pembroke was the first college to have a JCR art collection which is linked to a substantial charitable fund supporting student travel and hardship grants as well as enabling further art purchases. There is a lively music society, an enthusiastic chapel choir and a good following for drama. The college has its own boathouse and sports ground including facilities for cricket, football, rugby and tennis. Our undergraduate student body is also active in volunteering for access and schools liaison.

The community at Queen's is diverse, drawn from every part of the UK, elsewhere in the EU, and the wider world. Applications are encouraged from anyone who possesses a love of their chosen subject, the desire to take it further and strong academic potential. Our community is fused early on by the fact that the majority of first years live together, and the college enjoys open and engaged relations between tutors and students as well as supporting an active graduate community. All this on a beautiful and central site, which has been gradually modernised over the years.

The Queen's Hardship Fund provides generous support in cases of need. Grants are also available for travel for academic purposes and to allow people to stay in Oxford outside term. A further fund provides additional support for non-academic projects. Good work is rewarded by bursaries.

Location

Queen's stands prominently on the High Street, a few minutes' walk from the Bodleian Library and the University's science area, Christ Church Meadow and city centre. Buses to London leave from outside the front gates.

Accommodation and meals

Queen's guarantees accommodation to all students on three-year courses, and so far has always been able to house students on four-year courses. Much of the accommodation is ensuite. The kitchen and servery provide excellent food at cost price. The servery is also open throughout the morning for tea, coffee and snacks.

Facilities

The library contains about 100,000 volumes, including a large collection of rare books of international importance. There is 24-hour access, and separate libraries for Law and Egyptology. We can purchase any additional books required by undergraduates for their studies, and all students receive generous book grants. The 17th-century upper library, one of the finest rooms in Oxford, serves as a reading room. Wifi is available throughout the college, and there is a well-equipped printer room.

The college has two music practice rooms and a new state-of-the-art auditorium, complete with grand piano. The gardens provide a space for work and relaxation adjacent to the college bar. The college also has a gym, an extensive sports field by the river, a boathouse and two squash courts. The common room hosts the popular student-run daily JCR Tea.

Student societies

Drama is always strong, with regular productions by the Eglesfield Players, named after the college's founder. Music is also a strength: the choir is widely regarded as the finest mixed-voice chapel choir in Oxford, and the Frobenius organ attracts performers of international fame. Sport has always flourished at Queen's, welcoming both enthusiastic beginners and serious sports players. The student-run Arts' Week and college-wide Christmas events are yearly hits.

Regent's Park College specialises in the arts, humanities and social sciences. Our beautiful quad offers a retreat from the bustle of the city but also puts you just minutes from everything you will need.

Regent's is famed for its friendly atmosphere and strong sense of community, and its undergraduates often excel in the sporting and cultural life of the University as well as in academic results. Tutors give meticulous care to the academic well-being of their students, providing them with a supportive environment as they move towards success in their final examinations. Students are members of many college committees including the Governing Body, and their views are actively sought in determining college policies.

Location

Regent's is very close to the city centre and the University libraries and amenities.

Accommodation and meals

First-year students are provided with spacious study bedrooms (with hand-basins), and communal bathrooms and kitchens. Finalists generally live in onsite flats.

Regent's enjoys excellent food, and the catering committee (consisting of students and staff) provides regular feedback to the catering team. Breakfast, lunch and dinner are available in the college's dining hall from Monday to Friday during term. Hot meals are served at lunch and dinner, and at lunch a well-stocked salad bar is also available.

On each Friday evening during term, dinner is known as 'Formal Hall': students and staff wear gowns and dress more formally, and students may bring their own wine to the tables for these meals. Formal Halls are a social high point of the college week, and are usually followed by JCR social events.

Facilities

Wifi is available throughout the college. The library at Regent's, open 24/7, has core collections in all of the subjects taught in college, and its Theology collection is one of the best in the University. There are computers and printing facilities in the library.

The JCR is equipped with leather sofas and a large-screen TV with games console and has one of the last student-run bars in Oxford. Each day at 11am and 4pm the JCR has 'brew' (tea and biscuits), which is a great way to get to know people.

Student societies

There are numerous student societies and sports teams based at Regent's. Undergraduates also enjoy full use of University sports facilities, and many compete in University sports teams. Over the last few years Regent's has been well represented in University drama, and students have also become leading figures in some of the University's most prestigious societies. Regent's Park College provides a great base for enjoying everything that undergraduate life has to offer.

At St Anne's we are committed to academic opportunity and excellence. We are an open, modern and integrated college, one of the largest in Oxford: a community of researchers and teachers, graduates and undergraduates. Our tutors and staff are known for being approachable and supportive and we have an excellent reputation for welfare.

The college was founded to advance educational emancipation, and this remains at the heart of our ethos. St Anne's rewards outstanding academic work, gives generous grants for research and travel, and offers exceptional chances for study in Japan and work experience in Europe and the USA, as well as UK-based internships.

Location

St Anne's is slightly north of the city centre – five minutes by bicycle – just by the University Parks, close to the science area, Ashmolean Museum, Modern Languages and Classics Faculties, Mathematical and Oriental Institutes, as well as the new Radcliffe Observatory Quarter.

Accommodation and meals

St Anne's has an excellent range of college accommodation which it offers to undergraduates for three years of their course. Nearly half the rooms are ensuite, and some rooms are specially designed for disabled access.

St Anne's is renowned for the quality of its food. Most meals are relaxed self-service affairs, alongside popular 'formal guest' nights when students can bring friends. The college coffee shop is extremely popular with students and staff and there are also self-catering kitchenettes close to all rooms.

Facilities

We have one of the largest college libraries in Oxford, with 110,000 volumes on shelf for current use and a dedicated law library, all open 24 hours. The computer room supplements the college network with a range of useful software and printers.

Our lecture theatres are excellent venues for teaching, drama, film and chamber music. There is a lively bar, common room, gym, dark room and music practice rooms. The college shares a boathouse with St Hugh's and Wadham and a nearby sports ground with St John's.

Student societies

We have numerous events and activities: regular music recitals and film screenings, guest speakers from public life, a choir, a swing band and an orchestra. Twice a term there are subject-family seminars, when members of college gather to listen to papers given by Fellows and students, followed by an informal dinner. The active JCR organises everything from aerobics to art classes. The college nurtures serious teams, notably in football and rowing, but there is also a wide range of sporting pursuits for those after sheer fun.

St Benet's is the nearest equivalent today to the groups of students who gathered round masters in the 13th century and combined to form the University of Oxford. It admits male undergraduates, of all faiths and none, alongside a community of monks; a small number of male and female graduates live out, forming a total student body of about 55. Usually, 16 undergraduates a year are admitted for a small range of subjects in the humanities and social sciences. More homely than most colleges, St Benet's provides a strong sense of community within the hall and full engagement in University activities, resulting in a mix of calmness and energy.

The monastic office and Mass are celebrated daily in the chapel. All members are welcome, but no one is obliged to attend. Students are asked to be respectful of the monastic life, but the atmosphere is unpressurised, warm and friendly.

Location

At 38 St Giles', close to the very centre of Oxford, in a handsome six-storey Georgian Grade II listed building.

Accommodation and meals

First-year undergraduates live in; second-year undergraduates normally live out; third-year undergraduates are offered accommodation as available. All bedrooms have internet points and telephones; about half are ensuite.

Hospitality is important in the Benedictine tradition. Tutors, students and monks all eat together at one common table, everyone taking a turn at serving. Both male and female guests are welcome, and students of Blackfriars regularly eat with us. The hall hosts three formal meals per week: Sunday lunch, for which an invitation is much prized by students outside the hall, and dinner on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Once a term there is an official Guest Night, where students mingle freely with often eminent guests.

Facilities

The library aims to provide a focused and up-to-date collection for undergraduate needs, open 24 hours a day. There is also a separate IT centre, and wireless internet access throughout the building. Students share the main Common Room of the hall with the monks and tutors, and also have a separate JCR with kitchenette and widescreen TV. There is a pleasant, enclosed garden and a much-used croquet lawn.

Student societies

Students take a full part in the life of the University according to their interests. The hall has its own VIII on the river, drama club and discussion group, but otherwise students play for a wide range of college and University teams, and participate in many University societies. We usually have at least one Blue. Currently we have a Swimming Blue, Captain of the University Boxing team, members of several orchestras and choirs, and participants in charity and community organisations as well as the Union.

Catz is Oxford's youngest undergraduate college and one of its largest and most diverse communities. We treasure the traditional values of Oxford college life, but pursue a distinctly modern agenda.

We offer a wide range of subjects, with a roughly even split between science and arts. Most of our Fellows have an international reputation, and ten Nobel Prize winners have been members. Fellows have been involved in 'spin out' companies to exploit scientific discoveries made at the University. St Catherine's is also home to the Cameron Mackintosh Chair of Contemporary Theatre (recent holders include Patrick Stewart, Kevin Spacey, Meera Syal and Stephen Fry). All this makes for a stimulating intellectual environment, and the college is proud of its place at the forefront of innovation, research and contemporary culture.

Its modern architecture (designed by the award-winning architects Arne Jacobsen and Stephen Hodder) and restful open spaces (both Grade I listed) give the college a friendly and relaxed atmosphere, in which everyone is quickly made to feel at home. We are a cosmopolitan society, with students drawn from more than 50 countries.

Location

St Catherine's is situated at the end of Manor Road, off St Cross Road – an ideal location close to the city centre, the science area, University faculties and libraries (the English and Law Faculties, and Economics and Politics Departments are next door), yet surrounded by meadows, parks and water. Many undergraduates appreciate the tranquillity of the extensive college grounds. This is a college at the heart of the University, barely ten minutes' walk from the centre, but with a distinctly rural feel.

Accommodation and meals

The vast majority of undergraduates live in college for three years and enjoy the advantage of living close to college facilities. All rooms have internet access and many offer ensuite facilities. We have specially adapted rooms for students with disabilities. Meals are provided in hall on a pay-as-you-eat basis. Those who prefer to cater for themselves can do so by using the small kitchens provided on each floor of the accommodation.

Facilities

St Catherine's offers excellent facilities, including one of the largest college libraries in Oxford, well-equipped computer rooms, and a spacious and comfortable Junior Common Room (JCR). Sport, music, art and drama enjoy a high profile in the college; on site there are squash courts, a gymnasium, a punt house, a music house for practice and performance, and theatres for both indoor and outdoor productions.

Student societies

Clubs, societies and discussion groups are prominent in Catz undergraduate life: there are many different sports teams, a thriving law society and a flourishing music society.

St Edmund Hall is a college renowned for its friendly, tolerant and progressive outlook. Studying here you will rapidly become part of a large but inclusive community.

We admit about 120 undergraduate students every year, evenly divided between sciences, humanities and social sciences, who bring a wide range of academic and extra-curricular interests to the college. An equal number of graduate students follow research degrees.

St Edmund Hall is one of the oldest educational institutions within the University of Oxford and we are the only medieval academic hall to have retained its identity. Our college is a blend of ancient and modern with buildings dating from every century since the 16th. Our graduates include Terry Jones (Monty Python), Stewart Lee (comedian and writer), the journalists Anna Botting and Samira Ahmed, and Keir Starmer QC (former Director of Public Prosecutions).

Location

St Edmund Hall is centrally located just off the High Street in Queen's Lane with easy access to departments, libraries, museums and shops.

Accommodation and meals

The college offers rooms to undergraduates for two years of study, with all first years housed on the main site. Most rooms are on the main site at Queen's Lane, but there are other rooms in large houses near the University Parks and on Iffley Road, plus a modern purpose-built block off the Cowley Road. All rooms are single with a washbasin or private bathroom. There are self-catering facilities at every site. Breakfast, lunch and dinner are served in the main dining hall, prepared by the college's award-winning chef.

Facilities

The library is located on our main site within the Norman Church of St Peter-in-the-East, making it a beautiful setting for study. Additional special collections are held in the separate 17th-century Old Library.

Social and recreational spaces include the Junior Common Room (JCR) with satellite TV and games room, a music room and a cosy, historic bar.

All college sites, including public areas, libraries, common rooms and bedrooms, have wireless internet provision.

There are computer rooms, with printing facilities, on the main site and at our Norham Gardens accommodation.

Although many of our buildings are old, all main areas of the college are accessible.

Student societies

The college has a long tradition in drama, music, the arts and journalism. A strong artistic community is built around the John Oldham Drama Society, vibrant and expanding musical activities led by the recently-appointed Director of Music, and regular creative writing workshops coordinated by tutors in English.

St Edmund Hall students of all abilities participate in many sports. There is a dedicated multi-gym at our Norham Gardens centre; we also have pitches in the University Parks and a boathouse on the River Isis.

The motto of St Hilda's is excellence and equality. What this sums up is a very clear and powerful focus on supporting our students – to be the best they possibly can academically, in an environment which allows them to thrive whatever their background. With passionate and committed tutors, a great range of college awards for academic work, travel, sport and other activities, and one of the most friendly and relaxing settings to be a student in Oxford, St Hilda's provides all the right ingredients for success in your degree. Former students are encouraged to keep in touch through the Association of Senior Members and its professional networks which can provide help at the start of new careers.

Location

The college is on a beautiful riverside site with easy access to the city centre, University sports complex, and the lively culture of East Oxford.

Accommodation and meals

First and final year students have rooms in college. In the second year there is the opportunity to live in a rented house near the college. Food in college is highly rated, and we cater for all special diets. There is also the option of self-catering in one of the many student kitchens in college.

Facilities

The college library has an extensive collection of books, journals, and electronic resources to support all the subjects we offer. It boasts seven reading rooms over three floors, with seating for 158 readers. The main reading room looks out over the River Cherwell and the 'dreaming spires' of central Oxford. Students enjoy performances of every kind of music in the Jacqueline du Pré Music Building, which also has five practice rooms and a recording studio that students may use. St Hilda's is one of the few undergraduate colleges right on the river. Free college punts can be used right through the summer months. The University sports complex is just around the corner with its gym and swimming pool. Through the college, you can get subsidised membership for both.

Student societies

The JCR provides a student hub in college – with a TV room, pool table, bar and butterfly. The Committee organises regular social events such as parties and formal halls, and options for being involved in student clubs and activities include: music; drama; the college student newspaper; and a wide range of sport (such as rowing, netball, hockey, rugby and yoga). At the JCR Arts Festival students can show their own work (sculpture, painting, photography) and put on plays and concerts. And anyone is welcome start their own society!

St Hugh's is one of the largest colleges in Oxford. The college was established to offer an Oxford education to women, and it retains a strong sense of its radical tradition and of the importance of opening Oxford up to all who would do well here. St Hugh's now accepts men and women and welcomes students from every country and any kind of background.

St Hugh's has a beautiful setting just to the north of the city centre, with Edwardian buildings and some of the largest college grounds. The college is known as the 'island site' because of its tranquil gardens, and it is a restful place to live and work.

The college awards Scholarships or Exhibitions (grants) to undergraduates on the basis of their performance in University examinations, or for other excellent work. All members of college are entitled to apply for grants to help with vacation travel connected to their course of study, and there are also funds available for those who encounter unforeseen financial hardship.

Location

St Hugh's College is about ten minutes' walk from the city centre; within easy reach, on foot or by bicycle, of all University departments and libraries.

Accommodation and meals

Accommodation is available on the main college site for all undergraduates right through their course. Nearly half of rooms have their own bathroom. All rooms have free internet connection. Shared kitchens are available as an alternative to eating in the main hall.

Meals in hall are paid for using a cashless card system.

Facilities

St Hugh's has one of the largest and best-stocked of all college libraries, housed in a beautiful art deco building, with 100,000 volumes and 24-hour access. There are dedicated computer rooms, an impressively equipped gym, a student-run bar, and the college's chapel is open to all college members, regardless of belief.

Student societies

There are academic societies in many subject areas, and the college has a very active musical and artistic life, including a chapel choir, and annual prizes for musical performance and creative writing. Sport within college is very popular: as well as having a new gym on site, the gardens are used for frisbee and croquet, and St Hugh's has a share in a boathouse, squash courts and a sports ground. The college hosts a ball every two years in its beautiful gardens.

St John's has a lively and supportive atmosphere, with extensive grounds and some of the most beautiful gardens in Oxford.

We regard the link between teaching and research as important; all our tutors are active in research, and we have many graduate students. We have schemes for awarding grants to undergraduates for purchases of academic materials such as books and computing equipment and also for other expenditure such as study during vacations, cases of unexpected financial hardship, musical training and costs incurred in representing the University in sports.

Location

St John's is close to the city centre, with its main entrance on St Giles'. We are a short walk from many University departments, the science area and libraries.

Accommodation and meals

All rooms are on the main site or nearby in Museum Road. We guarantee college accommodation for every year of an undergraduate course. Each room in college has an internet connection and all first year students have access to a shared kitchen. We have excellent facilities for disabled students and special funds for visually impaired students.

Most meals in hall are self-service, with a wide range of options; you can buy snacks in the bar or cook for yourself. Kendrew Quad offers 70 ensuite rooms for students in later years along with a wifi café for all members of college.

Facilities

We have an excellent library which is open from early morning until midnight every day in term, with over 1,000 new books added each year. There is a computer room with PCs, printers and internet access. We provide wifi coverage throughout the college.

As well as the student bar, television rooms and laundries, we have an art gallery, two squash courts and two gyms on site. There are plenty of spaces for events.

We have a 200-seater auditorium and music rooms. Our sports ground, a mile from the college, caters for football, rugby, cricket and tennis. There is also a boathouse with 11 boats on the river.

Student societies

St John's has a joint orchestra with St Anne's College and an active chapel choir which gives concerts, records CDs and tours internationally. We also host the Humanities Visiting Professorship in classical music and regular amateur and professional recitals and concerts. We invite eminent artists in different media to spend a period in college as 'Artist in Residence'.

Our students stage pantomimes and reviews, and join productions in the University and at the Oxford Playhouse. St John's Mummers often fund productions at the Edinburgh Festival Fringe. Sport is played enthusiastically, with everyone having a chance to participate.

We also have our own TV station and student newspaper, reflecting the wide range of views and interests of our students.

St Peter's is one of Oxford's younger colleges, noted for its friendliness, flexibility and informality. St Peter's is an inclusive, tolerant and open community and we encourage students from all backgrounds to apply.

The undergraduate community is both tightly knit and notably active in University clubs and societies. The college is renowned for the excellent relations that exist between students and tutors. We have a strong welfare team for student support, and a student finance officer who is on hand to help students facing unforeseen financial difficulties.

Location

The college occupies an attractive site close to many University departments and libraries, and to both bus and train stations. Oxford's shops, cafés, theatres and cinemas are just minutes away, as is the popular Castle site.

Accommodation and meals

We are able to house all undergraduates for at least two years. Accommodation ranges from traditional study-bedrooms on the main college site to modern purpose-built residences (with ensuite facilities and small communal kitchens) a few minutes' walk away. All rooms are singles and have internet points. A full meal service is provided in the dining hall.

Facilities

The library is open 24 hours a day. It is fully automated and is well stocked with both basic texts and some of the more specialised publications needed for undergraduate work. There is a separate law library and reading room. There are a number of computers in public areas including the library, providing internet access. The chapel is a place of worship with an open and inclusive ethos. It has some of the finest acoustics in Oxford and is a venue for concerts, lectures, plays and social events. We provide excellent music facilities including two grand pianos, an organ and a harpsichord, as well as ample practice space.

The college has access to shared sports facilities, including a boathouse and subsidised gym membership.

The JCR and student-run college bar are used for events throughout the year. The JCR has TV, video and games facilities, and is a large comfortable social space.

Student societies

From rowing to table football, all the major sports – and minor ones – are represented at St Peter's, with many teams enjoying considerable success. Artistic activities flourish and distinguished speakers are regularly invited to give talks. Music is a particular strength, with a strong instrumental, choral and jazz tradition. The music society puts on concerts regularly, and the mixed chapel choir sings regularly in chapel services and also tours Europe. There are opportunities to write for college publications, and the drama society organises productions regularly and welcomes new actors, playwrights and stage-hands.

St Stephen's House is an Anglican foundation specialising in theological teaching and research. All our undergraduates are mature students (21 or over) and many are training for ordination in the Anglican Communion.

The college particularly welcomes mature candidates wishing to read for the BA in Theology and Religion; this can be with Senior Status (starting in the second year of the degree course) if a first degree is already held.

Students need not be Anglicans, but they will be in sympathy with our educational and spiritual ethos. They receive specialist teaching from our tutors in the principal fields of Christian theology and have contact with a wide variety of visiting tutors who are outstanding in their areas. All members of the community are welcome at the offices of morning and evening prayer and the Eucharist, which are celebrated daily.

Location

St Stephen's House is in east Oxford, a vibrant, multicultural area just ten minutes' walk over Magdalen Bridge from the city centre and the University libraries. It is opposite the University's Iffley Road sports complex.

Accommodation and meals

We offer students accommodation for the whole of their course.

Accommodation is either in single rooms in the main college building, half of which have ensuite facilities, or in a range of flats and houses which are part of the main campus and which are particularly well suited to candidates with partners or families. Meals in hall are provided daily for all students during term and there is a guest dinner each week. There is a large, well-equipped kitchen for student use.

Facilities

All student rooms on the main site and in the college flats have connections to the internet and University network. The college library is open permanently and its collections cover all areas of Theology. It has computer facilities, and there is also a separate computer room, along with study facilities for non-residents.

The college occupies the fine buildings of a former monastic community; it has a quiet cloister, a large garden suitable for children, a comfortable common room and bar, and car parking for students and staff.

Student societies

The common room is the heart of a lively and friendly community life. It organises sporting and social events, and there is a particularly flourishing musical life. Members of the college have represented the University in various sports.

From its foundation in 1879, Somerville's graduates have been changing the world. Our former students include two prime ministers; the only British woman to win a Nobel prize for science; generations of distinguished novelists; pioneers in social and public service and people of distinction in countless other fields. Somerville continues to expect the best from its students, and provides comprehensive support to help them reach their full academic potential.

The college was named after the eminent scientist and mathematician, Mary Somerville (1780–1872). The college was founded as a women's college and was also non-denominational, two features unknown in Oxford colleges before. The college has admitted men since 1994, but its ground-breaking origins inspire an ethos of openness and a willingness to question accepted orthodoxies which characterise Somerville today.

Location

Somerville's position on the Woodstock Road, alongside St Giles' and the vibrant Jericho area of the city, is convenient for almost everything in Oxford. The college is next door to the new Mathematics and Humanities facilities and Jericho Health Centre on the Radcliffe Observatory Quarter, and a five-minute walk from the science area. It is easy to walk or cycle to anywhere else in the University.

Accommodation and meals

Accommodation in college is guaranteed for all students in their first, third and fourth years and is available for most second-years, with Oxford bursary recipients guaranteed accommodation in this year as well. Somerville is known for its good food serving all tastes, with three meals a day served at very reasonable cost; and a new bar serves food and drink throughout the day. Vacation residence is available to stay up for academic purposes outside term time, with financial support for those who need it.

Facilities

Somerville has one of the best undergraduate libraries in Oxford, containing more than 120,000 books and open 24 hours a day. Wifi is available throughout the college and there are well-equipped computer rooms. Sports facilities include an on-site fitness suite, as well as playing fields and boathouse (the college has five boats), which are shared with other colleges. Generous travel and special project grants are offered to help students widen their experience during vacations and to help with volunteering.

Student societies

One of Somerville's greatest assets is its students' enthusiasm for college life. There is an active music society and the excellent choir has embarked on several national and international tours, with two commercial CDs released so far. Arts week is an annual highlight.

Undergraduates from Somerville are much involved in University societies, from every kind of sport to drama, debating and many other activities.

Trinity is a medium-sized college which occupies a beautiful and very spacious site in the city centre. It provides an ideal setting for academic success.

Relationships between students and academic staff are open and friendly and we welcome applications from all backgrounds. Our strong sense of community and excellent facilities are the ideal basis for hard work and academic achievement. We expect all our students to have intellectual curiosity, a passion for their chosen subject, and a commitment to independent learning.

Location

Trinity is very central: the Bodleian Library and other University buildings are a few metres from our front entrance on Broad Street, while the science area is a short walk from our back gate on Parks Road.

Accommodation and meals

Undergraduates can live in college-owned accommodation for the duration of their course, usually on the main college site for their first two years. Most then move to our self-catering accommodation in north Oxford for their third / fourth years. All students can eat in college, where the food is reckoned to be among the best in Oxford.

Facilities

The library is open 24 hours a day and aims to provide copies of all books that undergraduates need for their tutorial work, with multiple copies of standard texts. The library budget is generous, and the librarian can respond on the same day to urgent requests for new books. All student accommodation has internet access and there are computer rooms with free printing.

On site are an undergraduate common room, a spacious social area with a bar, a squash court and small gym. Our sports ground is 1.5 km away, with provision for cricket, football, hockey, rugby and tennis. The boathouse is on the main stretch of the river. We are well equipped for music-making, with a sound-proofed practice room, three pianos and an organ, and have a college orchestra, several choirs and smaller music groups.

Student societies

There is a wide range of active groups. Men's and women's teams flourish in most sports and anyone can join in, regardless of ability. Our choir has released two successful CDs and gives recitals in Oxford and on tour. There is also a large chamber orchestra. The Trinity Players stage at least two productions a year, the summer one in the gardens being particularly popular. Services in our chapel are open to all who wish to attend. There is always plenty of scope for each student to make a mark and organise something new.

Students at Univ come from all sorts of backgrounds, and all over the world. They have two things in common: intellectual ability and potential. They also have the capacity and enthusiasm for hard work, and enjoy intellectual challenges. Univ has a well-deserved reputation for academic excellence, openness, informality and strong welfare and student support systems. To make it easy for everyone who gets a place to come here, we offer some of the most generous college bursaries at Oxford on top of University financial support. To make sure that everyone settles in to their life in Oxford, we offer a carefully balanced Welcome Week and a programme of academic support activities for all new students. We are unique among colleges in offering a free pre-sessionals maths booster week for students in the relevant mathematical, physical and medical sciences.

Location

Univ is located right at the centre of the city, minutes away from the main libraries, lecture halls, laboratories, shops, restaurants, pubs, parks and the river. Our beautiful old buildings have been fully modernised for 21st-century needs, and we have several peaceful courtyards and gardens with grass and trees.

Accommodation and meals

Undergraduates are offered accommodation for all three years of their course. Students studying four-year courses can usually also be housed in their fourth year. Our student accommodation is high quality and affordable, while good-value high-quality food is served from our kitchen and buttery for three meals a day.

Facilities

Students love working in our college library, which contains about 50,000 volumes, with plenty of computers exclusively to support their study; there is a separate law library which is also well provided. Both libraries are open 24 hours a day in term. All student rooms are fully networked for computer use and also have telephones.

Student societies

Many students at Univ take advantage of starting university to try out new interests and activities in their spare time. The Junior Common Room (JCR) is the student union for the college, and organises a wide variety of social events as well as representing students' needs. Lots of Univ students also get involved with our successful Ambassador Scheme, which works across the UK with schools, teachers and pupils to get them thinking about applying to university and to help them with their applications. There is a high level of participation in music through the music society and the chapel choir; typically there are about nine college concerts a year, while the drama society, the Univ Players, usually puts on three plays a year. There are a number of other societies, college teams in many sports and excellent sports facilities.

Wadham is one of the largest undergraduate colleges. You will be a member of a diverse community from a variety of educational, social, ethnic and national backgrounds and part of a well-balanced and friendly student body. Wadham has high academic standards and strong traditions in humanities and sciences, maintained in an informal and progressive atmosphere. You will join a combined Student Union of both undergraduates and graduates with extensive powers, which provides a common room with wide-ranging facilities and organises welfare and charity support.

Location

Wadham is situated on the corner of Parks Road and Holywell Street, across from the Bodleian Library and close to the science laboratories and the city centre. It has extensive and beautiful gardens.

Accommodation and meals

You are guaranteed accommodation on the main college site in your first and final (ie third or fourth) years. When not living in college accommodation, you are given a grant to help with living-out costs. All rooms in college have telephones and internet connections. Whether you live in college or elsewhere, a full service of high-quality meals is provided in the hall and refectory.

Facilities

You will have 24-hour access to the college's attractive library, with its collection of more than 40,000 books and periodicals. The three floors provide more than 100 desk spaces and have internet points. The college's computer room, also open for 24 hours a day, provides up-to-date IT facilities. Staff are available to provide IT support.

Other on-site facilities include music practice rooms, a squash court, a gym and the purpose-built Moser Theatre which doubles as a badminton court. You will also have access to a large sports ground with a modern pavilion and a boathouse.

Student societies

The college Student Union is lively and active, organising charity, cultural, entertainment and welfare events throughout the year. There is a strong culture of debate, encouraging freedom of thought and expression. Wadham students organise a large number of clubs and societies including the Music Society, which runs the choir, and the symphony and chamber orchestras. The college includes the 18th-century Holywell Music Room, Europe's first purpose-built concert hall. There are many drama opportunities, whether on or off the stage, often taking place in the Moser Theatre. Wadham students have enjoyed success in inter-college competitions in rowing, football, basketball, ballroom dancing, cricket, croquet, gymnastics, badminton, netball and cross-country. Whatever your ability, we encourage you to participate in college sport and any other aspects of college life.

Worcester is one of the most beautiful of the colleges, with 26 acres of award-winning gardens and wooded grounds, including a lake and on-site sports fields. It is a happy blend of ancient and modern, with buildings from medieval cottages to self-catering accommodation completed in the last decade. Undergraduates enjoy a wide range of extra-curricular activities including music, drama and sport, making Worcester a diverse, vibrant, academic community.

Location

The college entrance is close to the city centre and coach station, and a ten-minute walk from the train station.

Accommodation and meals

The college aims to offer accommodation to all undergraduates for three years of their degree. All rooms are on site or no more than 300 metres from the perimeter. Some are in historic buildings, but many have been recently built or refurbished, and over two-thirds are ensuite with access to good kitchen facilities. All rooms have internet connections and most rooms have a small refrigerator. There are also a number of shared student houses.

Worcester has a well-deserved reputation for excellent food at low prices, and many students choose to eat in the college's dining hall. Self-service breakfast, lunch and dinner are available each day. A served formal hall option is also available on several evenings each week.

Facilities

The main undergraduate library has approximately 65,000 volumes and is well funded for purchasing new books. There is a separate college Law Library and a magnificent Old Library, which houses collections of European importance. Individual work spaces are provided in all three libraries, two of which are open 24 hours per day. A computer room with high-specification PCs is set aside for undergraduate use and is also open 24 hours a day.

Within the college grounds are sports fields, tennis courts and a multi-gym. The college also maintains a boathouse on the River Thames.

Worcester is committed to enabling students with disabilities to participate as fully as possible in student life; applicants are advised to contact the Tutor for Admissions with details of any special needs.

Student societies

Worcester students enjoy the many opportunities for extra-curricular activities that are offered by the college. There are teams of various standards in a wide range of sports, enabling students of all abilities to take part. Worcester has strong musical traditions, and the music society organises many activities throughout the year. Music practice facilities are available on site. Students may audition for instrumental awards, and Organ and Choral Scholarships are also offered. An active dramatic society puts on regular productions, often staged in the college gardens. Having these facilities on-site makes a harmonious blend of scholarship and recreation all the more achievable.

Wycliffe Hall is an evangelical theological college. We aim to equip our students through excellent academic teaching, practical ministry experience, and living as part of a vibrant and supportive Christian community. Wycliffe students and tutors consistently gain the highest academic awards within the University and our alumni have experienced some fantastic success as theologians, apologists and church leaders.

Our student body is delightfully diverse, comprising women and men of many different nationalities and traditions. Our students study for a range of ministries as ordained clergy, preachers, evangelists and scholars. Such an environment makes for a rich and creative milieu of ideas, and lifelong friendships.

Wycliffe is a warm and welcoming college which places a strong emphasis on Christian community and commitment. Students are encouraged to play an active part in the life and worship of the hall, as far as their course allows.

Location

The hall is a five-minute walk from the historic centre of Oxford and is located adjacent to the beautiful University Parks.

Accommodation and meals

Most single students live in study rooms on the main site at Wycliffe Hall. Students with families are accommodated off-site with full access to the crèche and other student facilities.

Courses offered

Wycliffe accepts mature students (those aged 21 and over) to study for the BA in Theology and Religion or the BA in Philosophy and Theology, usually with 'Senior Status' (where the student has already completed an undergraduate degree, and may start an Oxford undergraduate degree in its second year).

Wycliffe also offers specialist courses for those wishing to train for Christian ministry: see www.wycliffehall.org.uk/prospective-students.

Facilities

Wycliffe Hall has outstanding facilities including one of the best theological libraries in the University. All student rooms have wifi and access to the University computer network.

Student societies

All students are full members of a thriving common room. There are regular football and cricket matches and opportunities to participate in a broad range of other sports including rugby and rowing. Students are encouraged to take a full part in the wide range of societies across the University.
