

Course Information Sheet for entry in 2017-18

MSc in Education (Learning and Technology)

About the course

Technology is at the heart of modern education systems, workplaces and learning environments, and is critical to its success. However, sustainable innovations require a critical research-informed stance. The MSc Education (Learning and Technology) provides you with the opportunity to engage with research, practical application and collaborative exploration of this exciting and challenging field.

The MSc aims to develop the skills and knowledge needed to progress as researchers and professionals who will engage with all aspects of the intersection between learning and technology in a wide range of contexts across the life course and globally.

The key themes of the MSc Education (Learning and Technology) programme are:

- theoretical and methodological foundations;
- policy and practice in learning and technology;
- researching learning and technology;
- advanced theoretical perspectives;
- new modes of learning and participation within a networked society; and
- exploring the futures of learning and technology.

The course is delivered through seminars, collaborative workshops, lectures and individual tutorials with approximately 200 hours contact time during the year. The course is assessed through written assignments and a research dissertation.

Changes to courses

The University will seek to deliver each course in accordance with the descriptions set out above. However, there may be situations in which it is desirable or necessary for the University to make changes in course provision, either before or after registration. For further information, please see the University's Terms and Conditions.

Annual fees for entry in 2017-2018

| Fee Status | Tuition fee | College fee | Total annual fees |
|--------------------------------|-------------|-------------|-------------------|
| Home/EU (including islands) | £8,715 | £3,021 | £11,736 |
| Overseas | £16,770 | £3,021 | £19,791 |

The fees shown above are the annual tuition and college fees for this course for entry in the stated academic year; for courses lasting longer than one year, please be aware that fees will usually increase annually. Information about how much fees and other costs may increase is set out in the University's Terms and Conditions.

Tuition and college fees are payable each year for the duration of your fee liability (your fee liability is the length of time for which you are required to pay tuition and college fees).

Additional cost information

There are no compulsory elements of this course that entail additional costs beyond fees and living costs. However, as part of your course requirements, you may need to choose a dissertation, a project or a thesis topic. Please note that, depending on your choice of topic and the research required to complete it, you may incur additional expenses, such as travel expenses, research expenses, and field trips. You will need to meet these additional costs, although you may be able to apply for small grants from your department and/or college to help you cover some of these expenses.

Living costs

In addition to your fees, you will need to ensure that you have adequate funds to support your living costs for the duration of your course.

The likely living costs for 2017-18 are published below. These costs are based on a single, full-time graduate student, with no dependants, living in Oxford. We provide the cost per month so you can multiply up by the number of months you expect to live in Oxford.

| | Likely living costs for 1 month | | Likely living costs for 9 months | | Likely living costs for 12 months | |
