

Course Information Sheet for entry in 2016-17

MSc in Financial Economics

About the course

A full-time nine-month programme that provides outstanding training in the tools of financial economics sought by financial institutions, companies and public organisations. The MSc in Financial Economics combines a rigorous academic core with tailored practical applications, designed in consultation with leading financial recruiters.

The MSc in Financial Economics (MFE) is delivered through the University of Oxford's Saïd Business School. This means that, unlike other graduate courses, the programme features interactive classes, use of case studies, practitioner teaching, and proactive careers support.

Throughout the course, teaching stresses the links between financial economics theories and key finance activities. Topics are chosen in the economics courses for their relevance to finance. The MFE has been designed in close consultation with a panel of advisers from leading financial institutions. This panel has helped ensure that the choice and content of courses match the needs of employers. The panel continues to play an important role on the MFE, providing up-to-date practitioner advice on course content, supplying adjunct faculty and representing major recruiters.

The Oxford MSc Financial Economics course offers:

pre-course training to become familiar with key concepts and techniques;

four core courses in asset pricing, economics, corporate finance and financial econometrics;

five electives to choose from a wide range that develop individual skills and specialisations.

The assessment regime is a flexible combination of examinations, assignments and individual projects.
