Sensitive Personal Extenuating Circumstances Notification

If you experience any issues with this form, please try using Adobe Acrobat Reader.

This form is for postgraduate applicants to provide details of significant extenuating circumstances that include sensitive personal details. Using this form rather than declaring them in your graduate application form will ensure that visibility of these circumstances will be limited to the minimum number of staff required to assess your application. Circumstances that may be declared include those likely to affect either the strength of your application (eg a circumstance that may have affected a previous exam result) or our assessment of it (eg a circumstance that may affect your performance at interview). Please see the University's data protection policy and read our Extenuating Circumstances guidance before completing the form.

If the information you provide in this form meets our criteria for the types of circumstance we can take into account, it will be made available to the relevant academic assessors to be considered in their assessment of your application. If your extenuating circumstances have had an impact on your examination results, we expect you to raise this first with your current/previous institution. You should only declare circumstances that have not been addressed by the relevant institution.

This form must be submitted, with appropriate supporting evidence where possible, via www.graduate.ox.ac.uk/sensitivecircs after you have submitted your application, but before the application deadline has passed. It is recommended that you submit this form at least a week ahead of the deadline to which you are applying to ensure that it can be made available to the academic assessors in good time.

Please explain the specific impact that these circumstances have had on your application, for example by demonstrating the effect on your grades during a specific period.

Explanation of impact (up to 250 words):

4. Engagement with previous institution(s)

If your extenuating circumstances relate to a previous or current qualification, you should first approach the awarding institution, as we will not otherwise be able to make any adjustment.

Where the awarding institution did not make an adjustment or is not able to take these extenuating circumstances into account for policy reasons, evidence would need to be supplied of this (such as a link to their policy or email correspondence with the institution) and of the extenuating circumstances.

Please describe your engagement with your previous institution(s) and the outcome (up to 250 words):

5. Supporting documentation

Extenuating circumstances notifications should, where possible, be supported by appropriate evidence. Where the document is not in English, it must be accompanied by a certified translation. For lost internships or job opportunities, evidence is mandatory. Please indicate what type(s) of document you are uploading.
